TRADUCIR AL ESPAÑOL LOS SIGUIENTES PÁRRAFOS:

1) Google's artificial intelligence can probably beat you at VideoGames

Computers have already beaten humans at chess. But now they can beat you at any video game.

A team of scientists at Google created an artificially intelligent computer program that can teach itself to play Atari 2600 video games, using only minimal background information to learn how to play.

By mimicking some principles of the human brain, the program is able to play at the same level as a professional human gamer, or better, on most of the games.

a) Answer the questions about the text:

- a.1) What did Google design? What for?
- a.2) How does it work?
- a.3) Is it able to play as a human being? Why?

b) Explain the title with your own words in Spanish.

2) Environment

Plants are a general feature of the natural landscape and grow in all the most extreme environments. However, no species occurs everywhere in the world, each being distributed according to its own tolerance of the factors that comprise its environment. These factors are mainly determined by climatic conditions. Plant formations are distributed according to the heat requirements and drought tolerance.
